

Atlantic Centre Participates in the Conference on Maritime Security 2025: Innovations and Partnerships for the Future in Ghana

5 November 2025

Between 2 and 3 of December, the Atlantic Centre – represented by its Coordinator, Rear Admiral Nuno de Noronha Bragança and its Advisor for External Relations & Cooperation, Sub-Lieutenant Francisco de Arantes e Oliveira – participated in the Conference on Maritime Security 2025: Innovations and Partnerships for the Future in Accra, Ghana.

This event, co-organised by the Atlantic Centre, the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR), the International Maritime Organization (IMO), Germany and in partnership with Ghana, brought together key actors committed to strengthening maritime security across the Gulf of Guinea and the wider Atlantic region.

Building on the progress made at the 2024 Maritime Security Conference in Cabo Verde, this year's edition further deepened cooperation and helped shape a more integrated approach to maritime governance, security, and the sustainable future of the Atlantic Ocean.

The success of the event reflects the collective commitment of all participants and reaffirms our shared mission of fostering a more connected, collaborative and resilient Atlantic community.
